PLAIN TALKS TO OUR FARMERS!

[Written expressly for the NEWS.]

Clover being the chief link in our crop rotation, we wish to tell something of the conditions as they existed when our experiments with clover were started. Our section here is considered a non-lime section and naturally we thought the soil would be deficient in lime and after many tests we found this to be correct; some of our soil appeared to be neutral or sweet for a depth of 3 inches when traces of acid sufficient to show on litmus paper was found, the amount increased until at a depth of six inches it was so great that the clover roots refused to penetrate further and the plants threw out from the crown a mass of fiberous roots very much on the order of the strawberry plant. This seemed to be its last struggle for existance as it withered and died; on removing plants after these fiberous roots had put out, the tap root was found to be dead and other experiments proved that the trouble started at the bottom of the root system due we think to acid in the soil, since by large applications of lime we have succeeded in correcting the evil. Lime is not only indespensable to clover but also to most all of our cultivated crops and where it is deficient the crops must necessarily suffer unless lime is applied artificially. The natural formation of nitric acid in the soil called nitrification depends on the presence of lime and its first action will be to combine with and neutralize the free acids and sweeten the soil; the lime also breaks up compounds in which potash, ammonia and soda are held in an insoluable condition and makes them available for plant food; it hastens the decomposition of organic matter in the soil and aids in furnishing plants with available compounds they require. Clover uses up large amounts of potash, this we supply in the form of muriate avoiding at all times kainit owing to its large percentage of salt; this is rather hard on the manufacturers of low grade fertilizers, but we know it is death to most plants as it is highly recommended for killing weeds.

Decrease of Farms.

Editors of News: I will begin by saying I am a farmer and like it as a business. I have just read "Plain Talks to Farmers" and must say that I do not agree with him as to the decrease of our farms under present system of farming. I am quite sure that we are growing more wheat and corn per acre than we ever did, and as to our land being clover sick it is true and why? Simply because there is too much acid in the land and that is because we have discontinued the use of lime. Now this is not merely an assertion, but a fact which I can prove. Take a ride anyday this coming May from your town to the town of Galena and I will venture to say that you will not find a clover field or what ought to be one, but what has great patches of sorrel, a sure indication of acid and nothing but lime or ashes will remedy the evil.

We grow a vast amount of grain and produce it is true, and we grow it for the money there is in it, whether it is consumed at home or abroad. It is our sole dependence for a subsistance.

Now as to humus on the soil and the great benefits from matured roots. I own a lot of ten acres or more that is convenient to the barn yard and is never manured and never pastured. Some times I cut hay from it, and many times I have had to use heavy chains to a three horse plow to turn under the grass and we know that it does not produce any better crops than the pastured land and sometimes it does not produce so well. I believe in the use of fertilizer and never plant anything without using something on it, but must say that we are not as careful as the Physician. I know but little about chemistry and therefore have to depend on the knowledge of others. We have as you very well know always taken a great interest in everything appertaining to graining. We could say something about peaches but just remember that you have spoken and we will therefore be silent. Time will tell.

Yours Truly,
OVER FORTY.

AMMONIA NEEDED.

Mr. Augustine Hendrickson, a practical farmer of Millington, was seen by the NEWS man in town Tuesday and stated that he was reading with much pleasure the "Plain Talks with Farmers." He thinks the cause of the scarcity of clover is in the lack of ammonia in the fertilizers which farmers buy. He states that when he uses plenty of ammonia he gets a good stand of clover. Mr H. is a firm believer in manure and says the best clover he ever raised was when he put a heavy dressing of manure on his field. His advice to farmers is to buy more ammonia and then they will get more grass.

If you are going to top dress your hay, feed your asparagus, corn, or peach trees, plant tomatoes, and potatoes, sow oats, top dress your strawberries, plant seed potatoes, or need phosphate for truck this spring, it would be well to read Wilbur W. Hubbards advertisement in this issue offering his brands for this purpose. These goods may be relied upon to do what is claimed.

M. A. TOULSON the druggist, has just received a new Cypher's Incubator and invites the public to call and inspect it, he also has the brooder. M. A. Toulson is agent for the Cypher's Incubators and Brooders.

70 CENTS PER WEEK!

Economical Living of Two Kent County Farmers.

It has generally been supposed that it is the woman of the house that looks after the little things and economizes here and there in order to make both ends meet. But this week a farmer of Kent was in NEWS office and said that he and his brother had kept house this winter alone and that they had kept account of everything they used even including wood and coal burned. It had cost them just 70 cents a week! What two people can equal this. We read of one man up North who had lived on 80 cents for a whole year on a wager of $5,000.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Another of Kent's Best Farmers Passes to the Beyond—Death of Miss Crew.

After weeks of great suffering Mr. Thomas W. Skirven died at his home, near Fairlee, at 11 A. M. Wednesday.

"The agricultural interests of Kent County have a worthy exponent and representative in the subject of this sketch, who since 1879 has been the owner and operator of a valuable place in the sixth district. Giving his attention closely to his chosen occupation, he has succeeded in bringing his land under excellent cultivation, has planted orchards of fruit, built fences and the necessary structures for the storage of farm products, and by proper fertilization of the soil has made it very productive. Within the place are comprised about two hundred acres.

As far back as the record can be traced, the Skirven family has been identified with Maryland history. The father of our subject, John T., and grandfather, Francis Skirven, were natives of Maryland, and farmers by occupation. The former was for some time captain of a cavalry company of militia. In politics he gave his support invariably to the men and measures of the Democracy, though there was little of the partisan spirit discernible in his character. He died in Kent county at the close of seventy useful years.

The mother of our subject was Sarah Granger Gale, a native of Kent county, a woman of estimable character and a life-long member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. When fifty-five years of age her earth life ended. She was a daughter of Thomas Gale, known to a host of acquaintances as 'Uncle Tommy,' who was a prosperous farmer and for many years held the office of surveyor. She represented an old family of Maryland, her ancestors having come to this country in their own ship and provided with an abundance of capital, which they invested in St. Mary's county. At her death she left five children, namely: Thomas W., Mary Emma, deceased wife of David W. Hanes, of Philadelphia; Martha E., wife of William H. Colesberry, also of Philadelphia; J. Walter, a farmer residing in Kent county, and Washington Gale, also a farmer, who operates land in the sixth district.

He was born in the third district on August 3, 1842. He attended the district schools and continued to reside with his parents until he attained his majority. Starting out for himself at that time, he first rented a farm, and saved his earnings in order that he might purchase a place of his own. This he did in 1879, buying the farm where he now lives. In politics a Democrat, he has never been solicitous for office and his interest in politics has been of a rather quiet nature. At the age of twenty he became a member of the Methodist Protestant Church and served as assistant superintendent and librarian of the Sunday-school for several years. At present he is a vestryman of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church and superintendent of the cemetery connected with the church.

In 1886 Mr. Skirven was united in marriage with Miss Angeline S. Bard, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Six sons were born of their union, of whom Percy Granger is engaged in business in Baltimore; Thos. Arthur and Edmund Howe removed to the West and both reside in Chicago, where the former is engaged in the railroad business and the latter is interested in the coal business; Charles Howard is operating a farm in the sixth district; and Harry and Frank are still at home.

Mr. Skirven was chosen by Chief Judge Pearce as one of the auditing committee for Kent county and he made an efficient member. It was while in the midst of this work that the deceased was taken very sick and never recovered. The funeral took place yesterday, interment at St. Paul's Cemetery, Dr. C. T. Denroche officiating. His six sons acted as pall bearers. Undertaker J. E. Ferguson had charge of the arrangements.

Benjamin Porter Morgan, Jr., formerly of Kent County, died in the 23rd year of his age at the home of a cousin at 2432 Turner street, Philadelphia. The United Hatters of North America and employees of Frank Schoebles hat factory were in attendance. The many floral tributes bow their silent testimony of the high esteem in which the deceased was held. He was a son of Benj. P. Morgan and Mary P. Morgan, of Milton, Del., formerly of Kent.

Mrs. Georgia A. Comegys died on Saturday morning last at the home of Mr. John S. Newnam, her son-in-law, near Millington, in the 78th year of her age. Mrs. Comegys was born and has resided all her life in the neighborhood of Millington. She was well and favorably known in the upper part of this county. The deceased was of generous impulses; and though she had reached nearly four score years, her mind and body were active up to a few weeks before her death. She was a daughter of the late Col. E. E. Massey. She left two children, viz., Mrs. John S. Newnam, of Millington, and Chas. E. Comegys, of Wilmington, Del. Dr. W. Frank Hines, of Chestertown, was her nephew.

Miss Agnes Crew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Crew, of Chestertown, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Rash, near Worton Station on Friday evening of diabetes, aged 36 years, 1 mo. and 21 days. Funeral services were held at her sister's near Worton, Monday morning at 10 30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. T. F. Beauchamp of Still Pond.

She was too good and gentle for this world below so she went to God in that world above, where parting is no more. A trio sang "Abide with me," and "Some Time We Will Understand." The floral tributes were very pretty among them being a pillar of carnations American beauty roses and Hyacinths. The pall bearers were Messers Harvey and Price Stanley, Guy and A. S. Turner G W. and B. F Rash; Undertaker Krusen had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Adelia J. Roe, wife of Rev Robert Roe, a former pastor of Rock Hall M. E. Church, this county, died at the M. E. Parsonage, Trappe, Md., last Friday, Feb. 24th. The deceased was a daughter of Rev D. F. Ewell, a prominent member of the Methodist Protestant Conference. She was born in Baltimore about 46 years ago.

THE Pennsylvania Railroad officials visited Chestertown Monday and decided to put a side track to the basket factory and to Mr. W. W. Hubbard's factory. Mr. Hubbard will make a number of improvements to his plant this year.

LOCAL BUYERS this week were offering $4.50 for spring lambs to be delivered when in condition.

MARCH 1st brought three snowstorms, but they did not amount to much.

JUDGE HICKS, on Monday, sentenced Clarence Sheppard, colored, to sixty days in jail upon the charge of cutting Ulyses Nichols with a pen-knife, in a fracas on Saturday night.

THE wedding of Miss Minnie Rochester, one of Church Hill's fair daughters, and Mr. John F. Godwin, of near town, was solemnized Wednesday in the Monumental City. They will reside near Church Hill.

THE Postoffice authorities have deferred the closing of Lankford postoffice until March 31st. There is a strong effort being made to continue this office.

MR. WALTER T. MORRIS, of near town, has recently lo t two valuable cows in rather a peculiar manner. The animals were sick, and being killed it was discovered that one had a piece of fine wire in its stomach and the other a thin nail. It is reported that these articles were obtained from the bags of bran shipped here from the city.

REPORTS of loss of lambs continue to come to this office. One farmer in the fifth district has lost 15 lambs and ten ewes. Mr. J. C. Brice, Sassafras, says he has lost but three out of 20.

Two photographic copies of Stuart's pictures of Gen. and Mrs. Geo. Washington were presented to the Chestertown public school last week by "Maryland Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution." Similar pictures have also been given to the Western High School, Balt., by the same society.

BRIDGE-KEEPER Richards is to be commended for laying a board-walk from Chester bridge to Water street. It is appreciated.

A BOAT is expected at Tolchester today.

THE revival services at Christ Church have been continued this week. There were five converts who joined the M. E. Church last Sunday and eight who joined Christ Church. Are you right with God, has been the ringing theme.

STEAMBOAT REACHES KENT!

The Chester River Steamboat Co. are anxious to start their boats. On Wednesday the iceboat, Latrobe, piloted by Capt. Clarke came as far as Swan Point but he did not think it wise to venture further. The Gratitude fought her way to Rock Hall Thursday but on account of ice was not able to get up to the wharf. She returned yesterday with an iceboat. Information has been received at Chestertown that there would be an effort made to-day to get a boat to Chestertown. We have been without a boat since Jan. 25th.
