Not blind From Birth.

Fanny Crosby was born in Putman county, N. Y., and has not been sightless from birth. Her blindness is said to be due to the error of a physician, who ordered the application of hot poultices to her inflamed eyes when she was valueand what you have done for me. 6 months old, thereby destroying the optic nerve. The affliction did not, however, prevent her from enjoying the horse as well as any one"

In after life she was able to overcome the handicap of her missing sense to an astonishing degree, her other senses developing the acuteness customary in such cases. She judges people by their voices, and her conclusions are said to be remarkably accurate. Asked by a friend what she thought of a man who sat beside her at a hote! table, she replied quickly: "He is a deep, vile, bad man." And her opinion proved to be correct. "I don't want to know that person-his voice, jars on me," she will often say, or, "That is a kind mancome to de pend great on her indgement of character.

She is extremely sensitive to discords, and false notes jar her so that they waken her from sleep. This peculiarity was once turned to account by a man who wanted to secure an interview with her, and who was told that she was asleep and could not be disturbed. Finding out where her room was, for she was staying at a hotel, he simply strolled up and down ihe corridor, singing a hymn horribly out of tune. The poetess awoke at once, and the interview was granted.

Most Prolific Writer.

The blind hymn writer is the author of fully 8000 hymns and poems, some of the best known being "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," "Saved by Grace," "Blessed Assurance," "Rescue the Perishing," "I Am Thine, Oh, Lord," "Just a Word for Jesus" and "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross." She composes with great rapidity, and always has her verses complete in her mind before committing them to paper.
