the small-pox farce like Bankos Ghost their hands off and let this town attend

Steamboat traffic was resumed here on Tuesday and it is thought that further encroachments of the ice will not be sufficient to cause any further suspension of traffic to and from this port. Our watermen with axes, saws and hooks sallied forth on Monday and Tuesday to assist the mild weather in clearing out the ice embargo by opening tracks and cutting loose the shore line so that the wind and tide might cause a movement out. Quite a number of tongers succeeded in reaching the oyster bars on Tuesday and Wednesday. Fisherman at Love Point, have struck it rich the past week, some crews catching as many as 19 boxes of fine fish, this means much to those men who have been laying on their oars since Christmas and running great risks in crossing and recrossing the icy fields to and from their homes here, it also means increased prosperity to Rock Hall generally.

While we were so strongly ice bound we could look across the ice fields and see the police boat Anna B. Smith patroling Swan Point bar when ever the ice floes would permit.

While this section was shivering and doing their utmost to keep comfortable during the late cold weather, Capt. Thos. Elburn, late of this place but now residing in Virginia, wrote to relatives here that his garden and truck crops were in a flourishing condition.

Mr. Max Alexander having heard so much about the big profits in the poultry business now talks of entering the business as a pastime. He will not work the business for broilers and roasters but will run it for eggs alone. Revival services which were interrupted by the chicken-pox epidemic were again resumed at the M. E. Church on Sunday evening and continues through the week with increasing interest. With revival meetings and lenten regulations now on there is every reason for a genuine state of higher living. Not that we are so awfully bad but there is room for still better.
