GETTING TOGETHER.

Many misunderstandings between in- | perfect. dividuals and between parties wauld be The FAIRFIELD prevented if people would only get together and talk matters over calmly and in friendly spirit. It is the remaining apart that does the mischief, because it engenders suspicion and wrong views. There is a wonderful clarifying and smoothing power in the sitting side cultivating friendly relations. This is and ruffle. Exceptional value. where boards of conciliation, commissions and interviews, official or unofficial, bave their value.

But this getting together is useful not only when discordance of views exists, but also in getting people of similar opinions to work as one body for the the poisons in | futherance of some good object. The o further and increase vitality | progress of many cities is retarded not so much from diversity of views and absence of a spirit of accord, as from the fact that their citizens do not get together and co-operate. A single individual, however good his project and however pure his motive, may accomplish little standing alone, but the com-| bination of a number of individuals animated by the same purpose can often achieve wonders in promoting the business, social, esthetic and moral welfare of the place in which they live. One person is but one, but let him join with another and the power is more than doubled. It is said that one and one make two, but in numerals they often stand for eleven and that is generally the ratio of influence when they get to.

> Assessors Appointed .- The following assessors were appointed on Tuesday by the County Commissioners of Queen Anne's: R. Bruce Massey, first district; Saulbury Seney, second district; F Marion Hunter, third district; James E. Cockey, fourth district; C. C. Strong. fifth district; J. Milton Arringdale, sixth district, and J. Edward Stevens, seventh distrist. Thomas H. Barcus, of the second district, was appointed clerk to the assessors; O. T. Davidson of the fifth, and Benjamin F. Hartley, of the seventh district, appointed as clerks to the Board of Control and Review.

HICKS FOR MAY.

Storms of ternadic character are more than probable during this period, calling threatening storm clouds. It goes without saying, of course, that dangerous storms possibly may not develop at this time, or that many localities will not be visited by them if they do; but this stub born fact remains, that violent storms are more than probable, and no locality / part of wisdom and common sense to watch and not be surprised."

The seer gives himself a wide latitude -a very wide latitude indeed. "There will be a great strain on the earth" about the midriff of the month | Jill's of flowers, but Reverend I. R.
