PRESIDENTS MESSAGE .- We received this powerful document by the last mail but it has not been practicable to insert it in to-days pa per-it shall appear in our next. The tone of the Message is fearless, energetic and un equivocal, and from the ability with which it is drawn up, must command the respect of the impartial of his adversaries However much the opponents of the Administration may differ with President Van Boren in his policy. they cannot but admit that in his person and character we find combined a ripe scholar of extensive attainments, a statesman of compre hensive and enlarged views, and a politician of conciliatory and captivating qualities. The opposition have ceased their jargon about his non-committalism. He is found upon the severest trial, to be firm, unflindling and of the true Roman nerve. H's Messages, previous Iv, have attracted the admiration of the most discerning-this last but adds to his already high reputation.
