THE undersigned most respectfully informs his friends and patrons, that he still continues to conduct the Tailoring Business of Consumption: at his old stand on main street, nearly opposite the store of o. P. HOOPER esq.

Thankful for past favours, he hopes by punctuality and strict attention to business to merit a continuance of the same.

He flatters himself that his long and unrivaled experience in his profession, will enable him to consult the taste of his patrons in regard to the style of their garments, avoiding the extreme of fashion when they desire it, as he is well aware that there are many who wish, that in their dress they may not attract attention by being either in the heighth of fashion, nor yet very far behind it.

The undersigned deems it hardly necessary to re-assure his friends and the public, that the utmost confidence may be had in the accuracy of fit, and superiority in manufacture in his establishment.

He would also inform them that he has reduced his prices; having determined to manu-$2.50. facture garments on the following terms for Prepared and sold by Seth S. MY VOCATION.

From the French of Beranger. Thrown upon this earthly ball, Wasted, feeble, in distress, Trampled under foot by all, Conscious of my nothingness; From my lips a plaintive cry Sadly mounts to keaven's King, But a whisper comes from high, "Thy vocation be-to sing."

at the

gong, ready Hoos

Wealth, in gilded chariot borne, Spurns me as I pace the street; I am withered by the scorn Of the rich, the proud, the great; From their sneers 't is vain to fly, Everywhere they leave their sting; Yet the whisper comes from high, "Thy vocation be-to sing."

Life's uncertain path I tread, Sore perplexed, in doubt, in fear; Would I earn my daily bread, Slavery's setters I must wear. Though oppressed by poverty, Fain I'd soar on freedom's wing, When the whisper comes from high, "Thy vocation be-to sing."

Pitying a heart thus seared, Love vouchsafed his healing ray, But when trembling age appeared, That sweet vision passed away; Beauty's presence wakes a sigh, None responsive echoing, While the wisper comes from high, "Thy vocation be-to sing."

Yes, to sing is my vocation, While my footsteps linger here, Will not man smile approbation When his cares with song I cheer? Though to pleasure's board I fly, Though my friends the goblet bring, Still that whisper comes from high, "Thy vocation be-to sing."

mmmmmm SABBATH READING. Let us Give Thanks.

BY ELIZA COOK. Let us give thanks, with grateful soul, To Him who sendeth all; To Him who bids the planets roll, And sees a "sparrow fall." Though grief and tears may dim our joys, And care and strife arrest, Tis man, too often, that alloys The lot his Maker blest: While sunshine lights the boundless sky, And dew drops feed the sod-While stars and rainbows live on high-Let us give thanks to God.

We till the earth in labor's health, We plant the acorn cup; The fields are crowned with golden wealth, The green tree springeth up; The sweet, eternal waters gush From fountain and from vale; The vineyards blush with purple flush, The yellow hop leaves trail; And while the Harvest flings its gold, And cowslips deck the sod-While limpid streams are clear and cold, Let us give thanks to God.

The flower yields its odor breath, As gentle winds go past; The grosshopper that lurks beneath Chirps merrily and fast; The ring dove coos upon the spray, The larks full anthems pour; The bees start with a jocund lay, The waves sing on the shore; Hosannas fill the wood and wild, Where human step ne'er trod; And nature, like an unweaned child, Smiles on its parent God.

Say, Brothers, shall the bird and bloom Thus teach, and teach in vain? Shall all the love-lays that illume, Be lost in clouds of pain? Shall hearts be dead and vision blind To all that mercy deals? Shall soul and reason fail to find The shrine where instinct kneels?

Ah, no !- while glory lights the sky, And beauty paints the sod-While stars and rainbows live on high, Let us give thanks to God. A LEGAL JOKE .- "Well, George," said friend of a young lawyer, who had been admit ted about a year, "how do you like your nev Profession?" The reply was accompanied by a brief sigh to suit the occasion-"my profes stonis much better than my practice."
