TO DEATH. FROM THE GERMAN OF GLUCK. Methinks it were no pain to die Onsuch an eye, when such a sky O'er canopies the West; To gaze my fill on you calm deep, And, like an infant, fall asleep

There's peace and welcome in you sea Of endless blue tranquility; The clouds are living things; I trace their veins of liquid gold, I see them solemnly unfold

On earth, my mother's breast.

Their soft and fleecy wings. These be the angels that convey Us weary children of a day-Life's tedious nothing o'er-Where neither passions come, nor woes,

To vex the genius of repose

On Death's majestic shore. No darkness there divides the sway With startling dawn and dazzling day; But gloriously serene Are the interminable plains; -One fixed, eternal sunshine reigns

O'er the wide, silent scene. I cannot doff all human fear; I know thy greeting is severe To this poor shell of clay; Yet come, O DEATH! thy freezing kiss Emancipates! thy rest is bliss! I would I were away.
