

Baltimore, October 19, 1929.

Mr. A. W. Kraus,
City Solicitor,
Baltimore, Maryland.

My dear Mr. Kraus:

Please find enclosed a letter from Mr. Lewis M. Bacon, Jr., in which he submits his reasons for believing that he should have the right to pay a smaller fee than $100.00, with which he is now charged as a manufacturer of meat food products. His statements, as far as I know, are correct.

I have informed him verbally, however, that I believe the license fee had nothing to do with the length of time that he manufactures, except that he must be limited to one year without renewal.

I promised Mr. Bacon that I would obtain the City's legal opinion and, therefore, I am bothering you with this. An early reply will oblige,

Yours truly,
(signed) C. HAMPSON JONES
Commissioner of Health.

Dr. C. Hampson Jones,
Health Commissioner,
Baltimore, Maryland.

Dear Dr. Jones:

As per our conversation on the phone yesterday, I herewith submit my reasons for believing that we should have the right to pay a smaller fee than the $100 which you charge on manufactured meat products.

In the first place, we only manufacture sausage meat, scrapple and pudding. The nature of our business is such that as
